Dear Mr. Ambassador:

My colleagues and I are indebted to you for a stimulating discussion of the "Cultural Sources of Japanese Power" as CIA Guest Speaker on 15 June. If you found the topic intriguing, your development of it made it even more so for us. I am sure you sensed the enthusiastic response of the audience to your insights into Japanese life.

It was good to see you, even though for too short a time. I particularly appreciate having your views on the possible problems that Japan and the United States may face in their future economic relations. I understand that you talked further on this subject with [REDACTED]. You may rest assured that we will follow this topic with great interest.

STATINTL

Yours sincerely,
